6. Data processing operations

In the subsequent section, data processing operations that may occur when accessing or using our Website are described in detail. Within this context, we provide you with information on the essential elements of each data processing operation, namely (a) type and extent (when and how), (b) purpose (why) as well as (c) the storage period of your data (how long).

Moreover, we inform you about the legal basis which we use to justify the respective data processing operation as required by the GDPR. The following chart provides you with a first overview of possible legal bases, which we use in this regard:

Legal basis	Definition	Regulation
Performance of a contract	The processing of your data is necessary for the performance of a contract concluded with you or to take steps prior to entering into a contract with you at your request.	Art 6 para 1 lit b GDPR
Legitimate interests	The processing of your data is (i) necessary for the purposes of legitimate interests pursued by us or a third party and (ii) we have considered your conflicting interests and fundamental rights and freedoms accordingly. (For the right to object on grounds relating to your particular situation, see point 4.)	Art 6 para 1 lit f GDPR

6.1 Processing of traffic data; server log files

(a) Type and extent of data processing: You can visit our Website without providing any personal information. However, out of technical necessity, so-called "traffic data" are processed automatically when a website is accessed.

Within this context, in particular, the following categories of traffic data can be transferred to the server that is requested to provide a respective website or file:

- (i) implicit access data (automatic, inevitable and unsolicited transmission): IP address used, user agent (browser type/version used), accessed site (URL), previously visited website (referrer URL), time of the access request, language settings.
- (ii) implicit access data (transmission where provided for in the source code of the respective service): screen resolution, colour depth, time zone, touchscreen support, browser plugins.

Implicit traffic data will be stored by us in so-called "server log files". Hosting provider of our Website is Vercel Inc . (cf. point 5).

Furthermore, we may use traffic data processed due to your visit for a statistical analysis of the use of our Website (cf. point 6.3).

- (b) Legal basis and purpose: The purpose of this data processing operation is to establish and maintain technical security with regards to our Website. The processing is based on our legitimate interest (Art 6 para 1 lit f GDPR; for the "right to object", see point 4) in achieving the mentioned purpose.
- (c) Storage period: Server log files are automatically deleted after one (1) day has expired.

6.2 Contacting; contact form

- (a) Type and extent of data processing: When contacting us via the contact form provided on our Website, we will use your data as indicated in order to process your contact request and deal with it. The data processing involved is necessary to issue a response in respect of your request, as we would otherwise not be able to contact you. Moreover, the respective elucidations of this point apply accordingly to the processing of data being entailed by direct contact requests executed via contact details provided in this Data Protection Declaration or on our Website, in particular in the imprint.
- (b) Legal basis and purpose: Purpose of the data processing is to enable us an exchange with users of the Website and our clients. We answer your request on the basis of our legitimate interest (Art 6 para 1 lit f GDPR; for the "right to object", see point 4) in maintaining a properly functioning contact system, which is a prerequisite for the provision of any services. As far as your request is based on an existing contractual relationship with us or you are interested in establishing said contractual relationship, the processing is based on the performance of the corresponding contract, or on taking steps prior to entering into a contract with you at your request (Art 6 para 1 lit b GDPR).
- (c) Storage period: We delete your requests as well as your contact data if the request has been answered conclusively. Your data are, in general, stored for a period of six (6) months and subsequently erased within fourteen (14) days if we do not receive follow-up requests and if the data must not be further processed for different purposes.

6.3 Web analysis and tracking

- (a) Type and extent of data processing: On our Website, we use the web analysis and tracking software "Plausible Analytics" (<https://plausible.io/>). This allows us to track when our Website is accessed, evaluate said accesses and generate statistical data within this context. As a result, we are able to gain certain knowledge about user behaviour.

We host Plausible Analytics on our own server, rendering any third-party access to your data (in particular by the provider of the software) impossible. Plausible Analytics uses certain traffic data, which are transferred automatically to our server in case the Website is accessed (for further information on the term, please review point 6.1). Specifically, the following data are processed: (i) IP address of the accessing computer; (ii) user agent (browser type and version, operating system); (iii) accessed site (URL); (iv) site from which the user accessed (referrer URL); (v) window size (in order to identify the accessing end device).

By processing the IP address and the user agent, a device-persistent identifier, which changes daily, is created for each user. In order to prevent the possibility to identify individual users, raw data are run through a hash function with a rotating salt (i.e. random data used as an additional input). Hence, we are able to determine the concrete number of individual accesses to our Website for each day without any chance to relate data back to individual users. We do not log any personal data.

- (b) Legal basis and purpose: We use the collected data for the purpose of generating statistical information, which allows us to draw conclusions on the general use of our Website as well as to adapt our content accordingly. The processing of your data is based on our legitimate interest (Art 6 para 1 lit f GDPR), which consists of gaining insight to user behaviour on our Website; this provides us with essential information from an entrepreneurial perspective with the help of which we may improve our service offerings (for the "right to object", see point 4).
- (c) Storage period: We erase any anonymised data points generated by means of Plausible Analytics within thirty (30) days.

6.4 Use of cookies and similar technologies

- (a) Type and extent of data processing: On our Website, we use so-called "cookies". Cookies are small data sets that are stored on your end device by your respective browser. They are placed by a web server and sent back to it as soon as a new connection is established in order to recognise the user and his settings. In this sense a cookie assigns a specific identity consisting of numbers and letters to your end device.

Cookies can fulfil different purposes, e.g., helping to maintain the functionality of websites with regard to state of the art functions and user experience. The actual content of a specific cookie is always determined by the website that created it. Cookies always contain the following information: (i) name of the cookie; (ii) name of the server the cookie originates from; (iii) ID number of the cookie; (iv) an end date at the end of which the cookie is automatically deleted.

Cookies can be used by the visited Website ("First-party cookies") or – e.g., for advertising purposes – by third parties ("Third-party cookies"). From a legal point of view, cookies have to be differentiated as follows: (i) so-called "technically necessary" cookies, required for the proper functioning of websites by enabling basic functions such as site navigation and access to protected areas; (ii) other types of cookies (e.g., to generate statistics or display personalised advertising).

Most browsers automatically accept cookies. Moreover, you have the option to customise your browser settings so that cookies are either generally declined or only allowed in certain ways (e.g., limiting refusal to third-party cookies). However, if you change your browser's cookie settings, our Website may no longer be fully usable.

In addition to cookies, we may use similar technologies such as, in particular, the local and session storage of your browser in order to store certain data on your end device. In contrast to "cookies", this method is safer and faster because data are not transferred automatically to the respective server with every HTTP request, but stored by your browser software. Since their functionality is similar to that of cookies, the information on cookies above applies correspondingly.

Specifically, we use the following cookies respectively local/session storage objects:

Cookie name	Provider	Purpose	Type and life-time
wp-wpml_current_language	Website operator	Used to store the user's language settings	Technically necessary first-party session cookie, which will be stored on your end device for the respective browser session

- (b) Legal basis and purpose: We only use technically necessary cookies to maintain the proper functioning of our Website on the basis of our respective legitimate interest (Art 6 para 1 lit f GDPR; for the "right to object", see point 4), as far as personal data are processed within this context.
- (c) Storage period: With regard to the storage period, cookies can be classified as so-called "session cookies" (automatic erasure as soon as the current browser session ends) or so-called "persistent cookies" (erasure after a previously defined expiration date or manually). Information in the session storage is also stored for the respective browser session only (thus, comparable to session cookies). Information in the local storage, however, has no previously defined expiration date. Via your browser settings, you have the option to delete the entirety of cookies already stored on your end device and/or clear the local/session storage.

7. Social media and platform presences

For the purpose of promoting our business activity and our service offer, we maintain presences in various social networks and similar platforms. The processing of your data in this context is based on our legitimate interest (Art 6 para 1 lit f GDPR; for the "right to object", see point 4) in expanding our reach as well as providing additional information and means of communication to users of social networks and similar platforms. In order to reach said purposes at the best possible rate, we may utilise functions provided by the respective service provider to measure our reach in detail (access statistics, identification of returning users, etc.).

In the course of accessing any of the online presences outlined subsequently, we process the general information being evident due to your profile in the respective network/platform as well as additional continuance, contact or content data, as far as you provide us with such data by interacting with our online presence and its contents. We do not store those data separately outside of the respective social network.

Since we jointly decide with the relevant service provider (respectively entity expressly outlined as controller) upon purposes and means of data processing in the course of a respective online presence, we are to be considered joint controllers in the sense of Art 26 GDPR. The provider of each social network respectively platform mentioned shall act as the primary point of contact with regard to all general and technical questions in respect of our online presences; this also applies to fulfilling rights of the data subjects in the sense of point 4. However, in case of requests concerning the specific operation of our online presences, your interactions with them or information published/collected via such channels, we shall be the primary point of contact; point 4 as well as other stipulations in this Data Protection Declaration apply correspondingly.

Some of the subsequent service providers are respectively their server landscape is located outside of the EU/EEA or they use processors to render their services to which this applies. Please be aware that we have no influence if or to which extent such transfers take place when using the respective network. You can find the relevant information on how each service provider handles third-country transfers (which might include data of you provided in the course of interacting with our Social Media Presences) in the relevant data protection information of such service provider (cf. the respective links under each subsequent subsection).
